The Total Endodontic Training Programme

Making Endodontics Pain free, Predictable and Profitable for all Practitioners

This modular programme is spread over three courses and aims to cover all aspects of Endodontic treatment.

It is targeted at all General Practitioners who provide root canal therapy and is intended as a comprehensive review of the diagnosis, treatment and restoration of the endodontically compromised tooth.

The course is a mixture of lectures, clinical presentations and hands on sessions, which will give all delegates a chance to try out all modern cleaning and filling techniques, in a clinical environment. All practical sessions will be undertaken using surgical microscopes allowing participants to see the dramatic improvement that this equipment brings.

Each module is a self contained package and so it is not necessary for participants to complete the programme in any particular order. By the end of each course participants will have been shown all the major relevant clinical literature, gained hands on experience in the techniques demonstrated and benefited from regular one on one training and discussion through out.

Courses are limited to a maximum of 10 participants

Course fee: £695 per stage

Includes all hand outs, instruments and materials, lunches, snacks etc

Complimentary attendance to the hands on day for one dental assistant (non-dentist)

Dr Richard Porter

Consultant in restorative dentistry and registered endodontic specialist.

He lectures nationally and divides his time between St George's Hospital, London and StoneRock Dental Care.

Dr Ian Kerr

For the past 12 years he has developed his interest in Endodontics, in particular the use of fibre reinforced composites to help restore endodontically treated teeth. He lectures extensively in this area and works closely with the StickTech company in Finland.

Dr Kerr helped set up StoneRock Dental Care 4 years ago where he sees a regular supply of referral cases for endodontic treatment. He is co-founder of SR Seminars and is passionate about how endodontics should be taught and practiced.
